In conjunction with West London Law Society, you are invited to a CPD property seminar which will provide an essential tax update for residential property lawyers. The seminar will be followed by a Q&A session and a 'round table' type discussion on the property sector. The engaging speaker for the evening will be Andrew Waddell, Managing Director, from Winslows, a boutique tax law firm that specialises in working with other law firms that do not have internal tax departments.

The 'round table' type discussion will be hosted by Nicola Watkins and Helen Gillespie from LegalinX, a market leading property and company information provider. Nicola and Helen would like to explore key challenges currently facing the property law sector, the changing needs of customers and how firms are adapting and technology innovations and what impact they may have on the conveyancing process. The event will be followed by networking drinks and nibbles.
